Introduction

No one wants to consider their own death, let alone plan for it. But making sure those left behind have a clear picture of and access to your assets, liabilities, estate plan and wishes will take a huge burden off of them when that difficult time comes.

Use this guide as a resource to locate, gather, document and store important information that will be needed after your death. Your surviving spouse, adult children, executor and/or successor trustee will use this information to help wrap up your affairs and implement aspects of your final wishes.

Review and update this guide annually. Make certain to share this information and whereabouts of this guide with the appropriate people in your life.

Part 1

Immediate First Steps

1

Call my attorney.

They will assist with all estate needs, such as reviewing wills and documents, transferring assets, swearing in an executor, etc.

2

Call my funeral home.

They will assist with obtaining death certificates, canceling Social Security and Medicare, and beginning funeral preparations.

3

Call my financial advisor.

They will assist with all financial aspects, such as renaming/transferring assets as outlined in my estate plan.

4

Call my bank.

They will assist with any immediate needs, such as canceling incoming/outgoing payments, etc.

Recommendations for the Executor/Successor Trustee

- Obtain several original death certificates or certified copies.
 - Call the professional contacts listed above, make them known to one another and let them help.
 - Answer the questions on the following pages to ensure you are taking all assets and liabilities into consideration.

Assets:

- 1 Bank Accounts
 - Do(es) survivor(s) have access to funds? (Is the account joint with a spouse, payable on death to kids, etc.?)
 - Where is the checkbook?
 - Are there direct deposits going in?
 - Are there automatic payments coming out?
 - Does the account need to be retitled, or will it keep functioning as is?
- 2 Other Cash Accounts
(Treasury Direct I Bonds, money market accounts, CDs, HSAs, etc.)
 - Try to consolidate them all into one account. Call it the Primary Cash Account.
 - What accounts are linked?
- 3 Cryptocurrency/Digital Assets
 - Did the deceased use specific apps or websites, or do they have a physical hardware ledger (similar to a USB flash drive)?
 - What is their login information?
 - Provide the death certificate to each exchange.
 - Is the intent to continue to hold these assets in a different name(s) or convert them to cash and move them to the Primary Cash Account?
 - Is there cash in payment apps such as Venmo, PayPal Cash, Square Cash, etc., which can be moved to the Primary Cash Account?
- 4 Other Online Services
(Facebook, Google, iCloud, PayPal, etc.)
 - Deactivate these services.
- 5 Investment Accounts
 - Are assets staying in place and invested, or does the account need to be retitled or divided?

6 Retirement Accounts (including IRAs and 401(k) plans or other company retirement plans)

- Provide the death certificate to each custodian.
- Is the IRA needed for a surviving spouse? (They will treat the deceased's account as their own but may need an account in their name.)
- Is there a need to open inherited IRAs for beneficiaries?

7 Pensions, Annuities With Survivor Benefit

- Contact the payor, provide the death certificate and fill out paperwork for payments.

8 Social Security

- Contact Social Security Administration about death and survivor benefits.

9 Life Insurance

- Provide the death certificate to each company.
- If the deceased was still working, they may have had group life coverage through their employer. (It could be on the spouse too.) Contact the HR department to confirm. These are easy to forget, as they may have signed up years before.
- When proceeds are received, how will they be invested by the beneficiaries? Do they need financial planning and guidance?

10 Education Funds (529 college savings plans, education IRAs, prepaid tuition plans)

- Is there a successor owner or participant?
 - Fill out necessary paperwork with the provider.
 - If children (child) are already in college, determine when the next tuition payment is needed and how it will be made (e.g., check sent directly to university, etc.).

11 Closely Held Businesses (and partial interests in real estate entities)

- How does stock or membership interest pass?
- What are the terms of the shareholder agreement or operating agreement?
- Is it likely that legal guidance should be obtained?
- Is a sale required?
- Per a financial advisor, what is the income from the investment(s) and what are the risks?
- What portion of the net worth is made up of these assets?
 - Do beneficiaries want a significant portion of their net worth tied up in something illiquid and that they have no control over?
- Who is the contact at each entity?

12 Real Estate

- A personal residence typically passes to a surviving spouse. If not, it will need to be sold. Contact the deceased's real estate agent listed on p1.
- Investment real estate
 - If solely owned, does a surviving spouse or beneficiary want to keep or sell it?
 - If it is a partial interest, see #11 above.

13 Automobiles, Personal Property

- Automobiles will need to be retitled unless the surviving spouse is on the title.
- Other personal property will need to be disposed of according to the terms of the will. It is likely that it is not titled in the trust.
- For collections or items of significant value, get an expert opinion on value or an appraisal.

14 Physical Items (This can be challenging. Look around the house and take notes.)

- Hardware ledger: This is like a thumb drive or flash drive for cryptocurrency.
 - Log in/unlock it to see what the assets are worth. Consider transferring them to a crypto exchange, converting to cash and moving the proceeds to the Primary Cash Account.
- Book entry receipts for stocks: This is a piece of paper that means there are shares held electronically somewhere, and it is the only evidence of these shares (unless there is a check stub or some sort of direct deposit for a dividend).
 - Each transfer agent will need a death certificate and instructions on how to retitle the shares. Then shares can be transferred electronically to the beneficiaries.
- Safe deposit box: Who has access, where is the key and what does it contain?

Liabilities:

15 Mortgages, Home Equity Loans, etc.

- These typically stay in place for a surviving spouse or are paid off upon sale of the property.

16 Credit Cards

- These typically stay in place for a surviving spouse.
- Otherwise, pay and close all credit cards. Check for any rewards points, frequent flyer miles or cashback bonuses that have accrued and redeem them before closing the account.

Other Considerations:

- Was the deceased listed in some capacity in other people's estate planning documents? Encourage those people to review and revise if needed to ensure their wishes are followed.
- Ensure any charitable intentions are followed.
